LOST LIFE IN SCHOOL FIRE
Greenwich, Ct., Dec. 27 (A.P.).—Granville Lingard, superintendent of the J. R. McKee estate, was killed while acting as a volunteer fire fighter when flames destroyed the Ely school for girls. Today his body was found in the ruins. A son, Oliver, was one of the searching party. The position of the body indicated Lingard had been caught by a water tank which fell from the top of the building when the roof collapsed.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO ACT IN CARBAR APPEAL

cluded even by the previous hearings that have featured the appeals to save the lives of the slayers, was held in the Governor's office at the State House.

Besides Attorney Juggins and Governor Fuller, the Attorney General of the Commonwealth, Jay H. Sexton, was present.

"This case is a sample of the most elaborate justice and opportunity ever given to condemned men," said the Governor at one point in the proceedings, which was opened at times with interchanges between the Governor and the aggressive attorney.

INSANITY APPEAL.
During his argument to a great extent on the alleged insanity of John J. Devereaux, who actually committed the murder in the hold-up of the Waltham express, Attorney Juggins argued long and eloquently for all three youths—Devereaux, John J. McLaughlin and Edward J. Heinlein.

He fought for every inch of ground, but Governor Fuller, interrupting with his own opinions on various phases of the case, early indicated his adamant attitude.

"I see no reason to submit the matter to the Executive Council, for I have first convictions in the matter," he said at the end.

The findings of the doctors who examined Devereaux were sharply attacked by Attorney Juggins. He also criticized Chairman Frank A. Brooks of the State Parole Board, who made a report to the Governor while the three condemned men were in the death house prior to the last hearing.

INCUMBERT, SAYS JUGGINS.
"Incumbent to pass upon a case involving murder and in which the life and death of a man is at stake," I studied the reports of the doctors myself," replied Governor Fuller, interrupting. "I did not have any decision on the report of Chairman Brooks."

After wringing every drop of possible benefit from the alternative to the mortal condition of Devereaux, Attorney Juggins proceeded to point out that Heinlein and McLaughlin were away from the hold-up scene and waiting for Devereaux before the murder took place.

Here, too, the Governor took up the battle of words and contested with Juggins point by point.

Attorney Juggins: "There were three guns in the party, Devereaux and one, Heinlein one and Peter McLaughlin one, according to trial testimony. John McLaughlin did not have a gun.

"However, the watch was shot in the leg. Had Devereaux intended to kill, he would have shot elsewhere. There was no intention of committing murder. The others were slightly provoked at Devereaux when they learned of the shooting."

OVERFLOWS OF OPINION.
Early in the hearing, Juggins said: "I have my opinion. You have your point of view. But my opinion is the right one and the inference must be that yours is wrong."

Although the argument was heated, there was the best of feeling underneath, for Governor Fuller finished with praise for the attorney's aggressiveness and wonderful fight for his clients, and Attorney Juggins said he knew that the Governor was honest and courageous in his convictions.

Three motives in Brighton house walked in the worst suspense that mothers can endure as the arguments waged at the State House.

"Devereaux was receiving consolation from the government because of incompetency of mental condition," said Attorney Juggins, as he launched into his argument.

"He was ordered sent to a hospital by doctors who said he was of unsound mind."

"Dr. Sullivan said this, although this was the same doctor who later, in an examination at the death house, switched his opinion and said Devereaux was not insane."

HAD NO RECORDS.
"Dr. Alverson, when he first made an examination for the Commonwealth, did not have the records of Devereaux's case. Devereaux has received about fifteen examinations and the records show he was at one time sent to the Boston State Hospital—though he did not go there."

"He was ordered sent there for observation, but as a patient. When the Governor picked out three doctors to examine Devereaux at the death house, they responded that he was not insane—but they did not say he was sane. That, in my judgment, is important."

Governor Fuller: "Doesn't it appear unreasonable to you that the Governor should have to state specifically that a man is sane?"

Attorney Juggins replied that he took the doctors at their word and considered the apparent lack of delinquency in their statements as of importance.

"SADDEST CHRISTMAS"
SAYS MOTHER OF HEINLEIN

With we and drawn face, Mrs. North Heinlein waited today, following her saddest Christmas, for a word of hope from the State House that her boy and the other two condemned to die now the Waltham carbar murder might be spared again.

Just as the mothers of John J. Devereaux and John J. McLaughlin hoped for the best, Mrs. Heinlein, in her Arlington street, Brighton, home, placed her faith in the argument by counsel before Governor Fuller.

"It was the saddest Christmas I have ever had, knowing that it might be my poor son's last on earth," she said.

"We did not go anywhere on Christmas Day, but remained at home. Mr. Heinlein and I, thinking of our son at Charlestown."

"We did send him over some delicacies—fruits and candy and other things—in care of Warden Hendry, and we will go over and visit Ed tomorrow."

JOY AND GLOOM
ON HUB SHIP

Joy and sorrow hovered together among the passengers arriving as the Cunard Lines steamship Samaria docked today at East Boston from Queenstown and Liverpool.

Mrs. Miss P. Williams, wife of Herbert O. Williams, American Consul at Liverpool, landed her to hurry to California, where her mother is dead. Mrs. Williams received the news of her death by radio aboard ship Christmas Day. She was given the courtesy of the port, her baggage rushed through to expedite her embarkation.

A smiling honeymoon couple among the passengers was Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Binn of Wollaston. Binn is a representative of a wool concern and combined business with his honeymoon trip in attending a convention of wool men.

A group of Danish and Swedish amateur boxers came to show their wares in contests with American amateurs also debarked.

Among 115 passengers for this port was Miss Gertrude Black, a student at the Boston Teachers' College, returning from a visit to her mother and father at Scotland.

ENDS LIFE BY AUTO GAS

South Quincy, worked vainly over the Whitman boy with a pomotor for several hours. Then the medical examiner was notified.

Young McLean told the police his chum had spoken several times of the advantages of suicide, but McLean's belief had been his comrade was mere joking.

When McLean came upon the perfect coupe the engine was filling with the gasoline supply almost expended, and all windows and doors of the car were closed. The lead into the car heater had been taken off, allowing the fumes from the motor exhaust to enter the car instead of being passed through the heater.

Neither the dead boy's father, Leonard Whitman, nor any other of his family or relatives could sustain a reason for the boy's suicidal act.

tragedy. He alighted the wire too late to stop his car but jammed on all speed and scoured by.

WINDOWS CROAKED.
A hurry call brought an emergency crew from the Grove Hall barge to the spot and the splitting wire was snared and made secure. A Boston and Worcester car, heavily loaded, was close behind the elevated car. This car was held up for nearly a half hour until the repair "gang" arrived.

The spot at which the accident occurred in midway between Brookline Village and Chestnut Hill, at Wright's Hill. The elevated car was going at high speed when the wire struck it. The forward part of the car got by unscathed. Midway the heat from the flaming wire cracked window panes. Then came the wild flashing and the sound of burning wood.

The conductor of the car, when aware of the danger, pulled the trolley pole from the dead wire plunging the car into darkness.

WARNS PASSENGERS.
At the same time he shouted to his passengers to remain calm. He kept his doors closed to prevent frightened passengers from alighting and exposing themselves further to the dangling wire.

Above the two windows from which the glass had been melted, the exterior of the car was black and blistered from the heavily charged wire.

According to elevated officials the troublemaking strand was a "mill-off" wire, a short length snapping the main strand to a pole.

After a half-hour delay the car proceeded to Chestnut Hill. It was not disabled and was able to make

'SOLE' BOARD

It will be impossible for the board as at present organized to work with the Mayor for the best interests of the city.

"Whether these removals will be followed by others I am not in a position definitely to state at this time."

"By the provisions of the city charter and by common sense itself the Mayor is directly responsible for the conduct of the affairs of the city."

VACANCIES ARE FILLED.
When members of a board embark on a program of their own and do so with an utter lack of frankness, leaving the Mayor to suppose they are in agreement with him, they may then be deemed to have placed their resignations in his hands.

"Therefore I consider that seven resignations have been submitted, which I have accepted by this act of removal, three, on the basis of equity that was ought to be done, is done."

The Mayor designated Election Commissioner Patrick H. O'Connor, Election Commissioner Miss M. Gwalt and Principal Assessor Horace B. Mann to fill the vacancies temporarily and further informed the Board of Overseers it was his wish that they meet promptly and effect a temporary organization by the choice of Nathan A. Heller as acting chairman.

There are twelve members of the Board, Judge Leverett having been elected as chairman last Tuesday by a vote of 7 to 4. The nomination was placed by James J. Crowley, who, it was said, was outspoken against the mayor's action in removing Simon G. Heintz.

WANTS HELLER AS HEAD
The day previous to the election Mayor Heintz at a conference had informed a majority of the board he was interested in and would be pleased if the board named Heller as acting chairman.

The action of the majority of the board in electing Judge Leverett was considered a direct slap at the Mayor, and his resultant reaction was well understood. Four of the members of the board voted for the Mayor's candidate, and he instructed today he did not care whether the other five resigned or not.

Frederick M. M. of No. 194 Shawmut avenue, fell on ice near his home, suffering from a fracture of the right arm, close to the elbow.

PARIS NEW COMPLAINT

The fourth man arrested charged with drunkenness was Fred E. Schneider, of Peterborough street, Fenway. He was arrested after being charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

FOUR FACE BOARD

In addition to Patrolman Murray, four other Boston policemen face a trial board as the result of their Christmas celebrations. It is alleged they mixed too much hard liquor with their holiday cheer.

Desert States Are Swept by Heavy Snowstorm

Denver, Colo., Dec. 27 (A.P.)—The usually low temperatures prevailed in the southern Rocky Mountain states and desert regions today followed a snow storm which brought snow to the valleys as well as to the towering peaks.

Forecast—Fair continued tonight; Tuesday cloudy and warmer followed by snow or rain; moderate south wind.

MISSING WIFE OF DR. HOUCK SEEN IN WEST

Washington, Dec. 27 (A.P.)—The wife of Dr. Charles H. Houck, missing since last July, was seen today in a hotel in the West. The doctor, who was last seen in the city of St. Louis, Mo., was seen in a hotel in the West. The doctor, who was last seen in the city of St. Louis, Mo., was seen in a hotel in the West.

Monte Blue Will Star in "The Brute"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27.—Monte Blue has been so busy playing Santa Claus to his young daughter that he has had only a few days to think of himself once in a while and so when Jack Warner sent for him the day before Christmas and informed him "The Brute" by Arthur Newton had been chosen for his next starring vehicle, he listened, and approved.

"The Brute" is planned as a special, it means nothing. Usually in the movie the real special happen after they are made.

NEW YORK WILL HAVE to do with out Buster Collier, and Buster will have to do without his theatre, night club and Broadway associates.

He is returning to Hollywood immediately after the holiday play the lead in "The Sunset Song" based on the novel by William Butler Yeats.

Donald MacKall, who I understand was to play the lead in "The Ball and Chain," is now mentioned as the featured player.

IN THE LIST OF SURPRISES for the year 1926 none have loomed up more prominently than Red Grange. Red's first picture, "One Minute to Play," is in the nature of an experiment.

It proved so successful that the officials of F. B. O. fairly stumbled over themselves to get the former captain to put his job back to another contract. Red did that and he returns to California next week to begin a picture of "The Race Track," by Byron Morgan, supervised by Sam Wood.

EDWARD SLOMAN'S CHRISTMAS PRESENT this year is one worth having, a new five part contract.

Furthermore, the unit handled him by Carl Laemmle included assignments that many of the Universal directors would like to have, namely the direction of "Moscow," slated as Universal's biggest picture for 1927.

THE DAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS is was impossible to get any motion picture actress to stay put on a set. Along about three in the afternoon there wasn't a company working.

The Dr. Mille studios may have been the one exception. I stopped in there to watch Mr. De Mille shoot the crucifixion scene. I arrived just in time to see them manipulate the storm periplasma.

If the effect on the screen is half as vivid as it was while Mr. De Mille was filming his biblical episode, it will be one of the big moments in "The King of Kings."

SHOES REVEAL KILLING AS 'A FAVOR'

Chicago, Dec. 27 (A.P.)—Dry shoes as a dead man's feet were the only clue in the killing of a woman, according to police today. The shoes, which were found in the room where the woman was killed, were found in the room where the woman was killed.

HEIRESS WILL REMARRY SHE DECLARES

New York, Dec. 27 (A.P.)—Friends here learned today of the engagement of Mrs. Bel Baron Thorne, first wife of Henry S. Thorne, New York Clubman, to Roger Generelly, son of a prominent New Orleans family.

Found Guilty

FACES LIFE TERM
Pat McDermott was found guilty of slaying Don R. Mellet, fighting editor at Canton, Ohio. The jury's verdict contained a plea for recommendation of mercy.

THOUSANDS ARE HOMELESS; RAIN SWELLS FLOODS

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 27 (A.P.)—With thousands already driven from their homes and property damage estimated to run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri and Kentucky today were presenting to meet an even greater emergency.

Parole Head Favors State Crime Board

By BEET FORD
A clearing house for the parole of all but capital crimes is recommended by Frank A. Brooks, chairman of the Massachusetts Parole Board, in an interview granted today to the Boston Evening American.

Mr. Brooks suggests a board of three men up of a justice, a layman and an expert such as a psychologist to impose sentences in criminal cases rather than the judges in the criminal courts.

He says such a board would have more time and opportunity to deal with the facts and to diagnose cases for the future welfare of the offender.

FAVORS STUDY

Mr. Brooks favors close study of individual cases, especially those of youthful offenders, before sentences are imposed. He doesn't approve of the fixing of penalties according to standard rules, owing to wide differences in defendants and in the circumstances surrounding each case.

But Chairman Brooks took occasion to say that while he is interested in the parole and reform of youthful offenders, he has no sympathy for gamblers of any kind. He says that the law is not to be evaded and that the courts must be kept up to date in the knowledge of the law. He is particularly in the home, a major contributor to modern crime.

"The crime of the home," he says, "is the crime of the future."

A BLANKET OF CABBAGE LEAVES LENDS MORE MYSTERY TO MORNING HASH

Here is another pudding that will fill the family's need for desserts as economical and wholesome as professional flower is the slow baked and then letting it stand for 24 hours. It can be served either cold or reheated, served with a hard sauce. Properly prepared, it is much more desirable light and whiter consistency which change rapidly when reheated. APPLE AND INDIAN PUDDING. APPLE AND INDIAN PUDDING. To prepare the Rhode Island variety, mix it with one-half a cup of sugar, one-half a cup of butter, stirring 3 cups of skim milk to the boiling point and pour over the dry ingredients. Bake in a greased pan for 3 cups of molasses and 4 apples core, pared and cut in eighths. Stir well, but do not stir too much. Bake and place in a slow oven. After an hour's baking, pour over the pudding a mixture of 1/2 cup of sugar and 1/2 cup of skim milk. The older this milk is without being sour, the better. Stir it in and bake for 2 hours. The pudding and bake very slowly for four hours. Let stand 24 hours or

SENATORS URGE MORE RESPECT FOR LAW IN '27

Copyright, 1926, by International News Service

Washington, Dec. 27.—That the development of 1927 will be a year of more respect for the law, is the opinion of many Senators.

What, even in the most recent year, has been the most important factor in the development of the law?

CHAPTER I
THEY were waiting for him, the two women, in the dimly lit room. The door opened and a man came in. He was tall, thin, with a high forehead and a serious expression. He looked at the two women and then at the clock on the wall. The woman on the left, who was older and had a more mature face, spoke first. "He is late," she said. "He should have been here an hour ago." The woman on the right, who was younger and had a more youthful face, spoke next. "I don't know," she said. "He might have been delayed by something." The man looked at them both and then at the clock again. "It is ten o'clock," he said. "He is not here yet." The two women looked at each other and then at the man. They both had a worried expression on their faces. The man looked at them and then at the clock again. "He is not here yet," he said. "He should have been here an hour ago." BOSTON BASEBALL CHIEFS SMILE AS THEY THINK OF NEW YEAR

BOB QUINN
President of the Red Sox looks forward to a good year after three tough ones, knows his new manager will bring the fans out to Fenway.

BILL CARRIGAN
William is snow bound, but busy in Lewiston. He has things pretty well lined up for his return to the game. Hopes to say "Happy New Year" alone, about July 1.

DAVE BANCROFT
The greatest of the shortstops believes his Braves have finally arrived and will play all next year the way they wound up in '26. Even thinks they will beat the Phillies.

JUDGE FUCHS
Brave owner saw signs of a happy future last summer when his team finished with a wild rush. He expects to give Boston a new first baseman for a 1927 gift.

Dr. Stidger Gives Judge Landis' Ten Commandments

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27 (A.P.)—Ten commandments, intended as suggestions for Commissioner Kenneth A. Landis, have been prepared by the William J. Stidger, pastor of the Episcopal Church in the city.

Dr. Stidger formerly occupied a pulpit in Detroit. The commandments are based on Dr. Stidger's conception of court procedure as applied to baseball regulations.

The first commandment reads: "Thou shalt not have the public in court, that which you are paid $5,000 a year to do."

Eight commandments are devoted to a plea for a "total" suspension of the entire year, during the time that the baseball season is in progress.

The tenth commandment reads: "Thou shalt not have the public in court, that which you are paid $5,000 a year to do."

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of the concentration of the solution on the rate of reaction. The concentration of the solution was varied from 0.1 M to 0.5 M, and the rate of reaction was measured by the time taken for the reaction to complete. The results show that the rate of reaction increases with increasing concentration of the solution.

Ships for Boston

AND South America!

Survivors of the Boston Chamber of Commerce South American tour of 1913, when thirty-five business and professional men of this region sailed down the West and up the East coast on the longest tour that had been undertaken up to that time in the interest of any American city, await with interest the decision of the United States Shipping Board, on Thursday or shortly afterwards, on the question of giving Boston TEN cargo ships, for our growing trade with South America.

The allocation of these ships to Boston has been recommended by President Dalton of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, New York, naturally, wishes to hold them. Baltimore and Philadelphia want to get them. The outlook is said to be favorable to New England.

Colonel Henry L. Kinsale, of Quincy, was president of the memorable "Boat Boston" tour of 1913, which occupied three months and was of lasting service to the trade and commerce of this section.

In the party there were presidents and high officials of some of New England's larger corporations; young and energetic sales managers; representatives of the boat and shoe, woolen, optical goods, chemical, dental supply, agricultural implement and envelope industries; as well as college professors and bankers.

Thomas F. Anderson, still the tireless secretary of the New England Shoe and Leather Association, was one of the travelers. Another was former Mayor James Logan, of Worcester. Dartmouth, "Tech," Harvard and Clark University were represented. The Boston Evening American reporter was Fred J. MacIsaac, now writing with equal success for the magazines and the movies.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, first to sing of a Bigger, Better, Bolder Boston, was one of a party of twenty-one which went as far as Panama, and, after visiting Colombia, returned home. Mr. Fitzgerald, it will be recalled, promptly began urging our schools to pay more attention to the Spanish language. The tourists, by the way, carried Boston and New England booklets, printed in both Spanish and Portuguese.

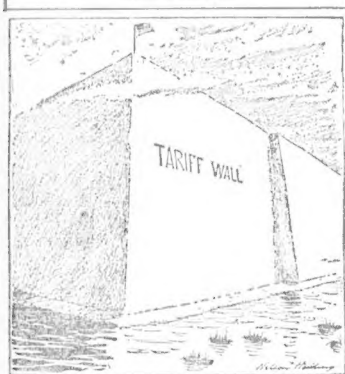

Dr. Julius Klein had not yet come to Harvard University from the Pacific Coast, and was not even contemplating the public service he is performing as director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce.

Those Chamber of Commerce tourists of nearly fourteen years ago were pioneers, pioneers. There were some who doubted, some who smiled, some who scoffed. Many believed. The Chamber and its self-sacrificing representatives KNEW.

Boston, as many will not believe until they have gone to the sea, is, again, THIS port desires no UNFAIR advantage over any other, wants to see EVERY American port abounding in prosperity, but nevertheless will be prepared to celebrate with much rejoicing the official announcement that the fleet now known as the American Republics line has been permanently assigned to Boston South America service.

Any International Banker Who Thinks He Can Tear THIS Down Is Mistaken

HERE IS THE WALL THAT KEEPS BUSINESS PROFITS AND GOOD TIMES GOING IN AMERICA

This picture, from the excellent Brooklyn Eagle, carries the title "Our 'Seven-Billion-Dollar Sky-Scraper'." In solemn publications it is said "big financial bankers wish to tear down the United States tariff wall because there can be no real recovery in Europe until we allow labor, factories and business of the Old World to compete with our workers and our business men, without tariff obstruction." Too bad about European recovery; but if that is so, IT WILL HAVE TO WAIT.

We are told that Europe owes us money and can't possibly pay unless we buy Europe's goods in preference to goods produced by our workers and business men.

If we destroyed our tariff Europe would kindly use part of the money that we paid for her goods to pay what she owes us.

We prefer rather she should not pay, and so keep employment, high wages and prosperity in the United States.

Thank heaven we HAVE the wall! WE NEED IT, and WE'LL KEEP IT.

DISPLAY OF WEALTH TEMPTS MANY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

AN ostentatious display of gems or other valuables, implying immense concentrated wealth, is a lure to the criminal.

Warning expensive jewelry is not only bad taste, but it is advertising to somebody to knock you down and rob you. A certain woman owns several expensive diamond rings and brooches which she keeps locked up in the safety deposit vault because she is afraid to wear them.

Mrs. Edward T. Stansbury recently attended the opening of the Chicago Opera adorned in diamonds and emeralds in a tiara, dog-collar necklace and bracelets, and was the observed of all observers.

Doubtless she enjoyed the adornments, but she was also playing a premium upon those gentlemanly friends who live by their wits to lay for her in some dark alley and get her valuables.

At the wedding of the Princess Astrid millions of dollars' worth of jewelry was displayed. The first thing that comes to mind is that the bride was very hard to make a bare living it does not set very well with them to have this enormous wealth flaunted before them.

One has a right, of course, to do as he pleases with his money and to own an expensive gem or so if he likes. But it is best, all in all, to keep your jewelry in a safety deposit vault at the bank and wear paste.

If you are known to be rich everybody will think your gems are genuine and if you are poor they won't believe your gems are good even if they are of intrinsic worth.

On the whole if you are going to display anything, we should recommend paste.

The argument for simple attire and lack of ornamentation is not based upon any religious feeling, but simply upon the question of good taste and a fair consideration for your fellows.

Odds and Ends of the Town

PARING SHOT

JIMMY BRENNAN of CHARLES TOWN scored a hit with this job at a Friday dinner: "A lawyer named Strange made a will in which he ordered this inscription on his tombstone: 'Here lies a lawyer and an honest man. That's Strange.'"

MIND READERS
BARTHOLOMEW J. CONNOLLY, BROOKLINE resident, likes to read the minds of his friends. He recently had a chat with "SMILING JIM" DONOVAN, popular city clown, who is credited with being the best psychologist in the city. It is said that CONNOLLY can tell what's on a person's mind the moment he speaks.

So that as it may, CONNOLLY can read DONOVAN's mind the moment they meet. The first thing that comes to mind is that the latter is a justice which CONNOLLY advised some time ago.

PROMOTED
MICHAEL P. HART, an authority on the poor debtor law, has been promoted to the position of assistant to FRANK J. CAMMELL, clerk of the SUPERIOR COURT. HART won the position after the WEST END and later positions by MARTIN M. LOMASNEY. HART was always popular and in his boyhood days as a pupil in St. Mary's Parochial school, NORTH END, was laureate in class orations.

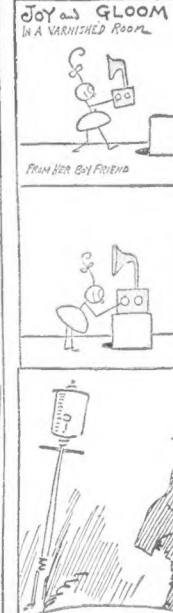

NEW HONORS
ASSOCIATE JUSTICE HAROLD HASKELL was the recipient of one of the DORCHESTER COURT pro tems and on this occasion appeared at the DORCHESTER DISTRICT COURT to receive over JUDGE JOSEPH R. CHURCHILL, the presiding judge of the regular court, the DORCHESTER COURT pro tems and on this occasion appeared at the DORCHESTER DISTRICT COURT to receive over JUDGE JOSEPH R. ROCKER DAYS
Many people have heard JOHN HALLIGAN, court officer of the DORCHESTER COURT, along the six mile course he has been accustomed to walk every day. But he has taken over the old course and with him on the job is FRANK LIN FIELD each morning.

OLD SLEUTH STUFF
Among those present in the room of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is the assistant in charge, CONRAD O. RUDSHAW, who has had as many interesting experiences in his long service as any hero of old detective stories. He came to Boston to investigate the case of a woman who was the wife of a Federal, state and city authority. She had landed in a regular clearing house fashion.
